Report - Visit to Herbal Garden

There was a herbal garden visit arranged by ACPM Medical College for its students studying in first MBBS at Smt. K. C. Ajmera Ayurved Mahavidyalay, Deopur, Dhule. Students were divided in 4 batches

Schedule of visit (Day -Saturday , Time 2-4 pm)

Batch	Date
A	6/2/2016
B	13/2/2016
C	20/2/2016
D	27/2/2016

During the informative tour, guidance was provided by Dr. Manoj Kumar More, HOD and professor Dravyagun Vidnyan and Dr. Prajakta Patel Assistant professor, Dravyagun Vidnyan. The students were given a vivid tour around the herbal garden enlightening them about the benefits and application of locally available trees, herbs, shrubs and creepers. Our students enjoyed and felt wonder on knowing the herbal plants and their historical importance.

The tour started with the neem tree, of which medicines can be extracted from the leaves, the bark as well as the seeds. It is used for leprosy, eye disorders, intestinal worms, skin ulcers and many more. The leaves of ficu sglomerata or oomber cure bilious infections whereas its fruits are used for constipation and diarrhoea. The peepal tree or ficu sreligosa is worshipped in our country since ages and is useful as an antiulcer, antibacterial and an antidiabetic. The land also had a ficu s benghalensis (Vad) tree known for its medicinal usage in ulcers and inflammations and a moringa oleifera (Shewaga) n plant which while also being used as a cuisine, is a very good treatment for asthma and arthritis and rheumatism.

There were also numerous shrubs at display among which were some plants which we make use of in routine life whilst being unknown of their amazing medicinal properties. The ocimum or tulsī also known as Indian basil is widely used as an antipyretic, and to treat sore throat and cold. Aloe vera has a green gel like substance which has soothing and moisturising properties to treat burns and acne whereas adhathoda or adulsa is largely used to treat cough and used in a syrup. The zinziber officinale or ginger is used for pain but is also an excellent anti-inflammatory along with curcuma longa or haldi which is traditionally used as a powder mixed in warm milk. The flowers of hibiscus are edible in some parts but are also useful as hair care preparation.

The visit inspired all the students and filled them with a sense of astonishment at how and truly amazing the nature is. We thank the faculty at Smt. K. C. Ajmera Ayurved Mahavidyalay for making arrangements for the students and for the kind hospitality provided by them. Also a special thanks to our college ACPM medical college for arranging for such a useful visit.

Following practical's are demonstrated by the software subscribed by the college for training of undergraduate students and postgraduate students.

Experimental Physiology Series (Ex Physio Series)

This is a computer assisted learning package containing various programs which simulate animal experiments in Physiology. These programs can be used to perform virtual physiology experiments. The package is user friendly, highly interactive and full of animated sequences which make simulation appear realistic. The current version of Experimental Physiology series (Ex-Physio series) software consists of following computer simulated experiments:
